

3rd WORKSHOP ON RESIDENTIAL HOUSING MARKETS

A Market in Distress and Potential Solutions

How are housing markets affected by the accumulation of recent crises shaking economies? From a macro perspective, one may ask whether and why certain housing policy regimes meant more resilient markets than others, and which lessons could be learned to be better prepared for future times of crises. From a micro perspective, it is crucial to understand whether the divides in societies are still along traditional lines like tenure status, social and economic background, and accessibility to urban agglomerations or did other aspects gain in importance; are amenities valued still in the same way as before; and how do new market practises affect our understanding of the functioning of today's housing markets?

This workshop thus aims to bring together researchers working on a broad range of aspects of residential housing markets. While we are interest in general submissions related to residential housing, this time we particularly encourage the submission of proposals related to the analysis of present or past crises as well as policy assessment and recommendations.

Keynote Lecture

Prof. Helen Bao

Department for Land Economy
University of Cambridge

Key facts

- When? 26.-27. June 2024
- Where? Vienna University of Economics and Business, Clubraum
- Abstracts Submission Deadline: 31. January 2024
- Contact: 260624-3825@wu.ac.at

Organizing Committee

Anja M Hahn (Vienna University of Economics and Business & DSS)

Sanela Omerovic (Vienna University of Economics and Business & DSS)

Sofie R Walth (University of Cambridge & Vienna University of Economics and Business)

More Details and Abstract Submission

<https://short.wu.ac.at/twtg>

